nehta

Australian Medicines Terminology v3 – Common v1.0.1

Release Note

3 March 2014
Approved for external information

Summary

EP-1597:2014 Australian Medicines Terminology v3 – Common v1.0.1

This end product contains product components that are common to the AMT v3 model.

Release rationale

This release includes:

- The Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model Diagram, which represents the conceptual model of AMT. The model reflects the Stated Form of AMT and has been created using a combination of UML syntax and the SNOMED CT Diagramming Guideline. It has been modified since the release of AMT v3 Beta in February 2013 and is the result of feedback received from stakeholders. The AMT v3 release data will be compliant with this model.

- An update to the Australian Medicines Terminology v2 to v3 Migration Guide to incorporate recent changes to the AMT v3 Model. It describes the key differences between the AMT v2 and v3 and is relevant for those currently using AMT v2 who will need to migrate to AMT v3.

Package inclusions

New

Identifier	Name
NEHTA-1632:2014	Australian Medicines Terminology v3 - Common – Release Note v1.0.1
NEHTA-1582:2014	Australian Medicines Terminology v3 – Model Diagram v1.0

Updated (supersedes previous version)

Identifier	Name
NEHTA-1596:2014	Australian Medicines Terminology v2 to v3 Migration Guide v2.0

No change

Identifier	Name
NEHTA-0910:2012	Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Editorial Rules v1.0
NEHTA-1236:2013	Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Overview and Detailed Business Use Cases v1.0
NEHTA-1240:2013	Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Technical Implementation Guide Scripts v1.0
NEHTA-1237:2013	Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Technical Implementation Guide v1.0

Removed

None

Audience

The audience for this end product includes anyone with a practical interest in the AMT v3 model, including:

- business owners, product managers, project managers, policy makers.

- healthcare professionals and other end users.

- programmers, content developers, testers, information system suppliers, analysts, terminology/classification specialists, health IT professionals and researchers.

Support

For further support or to provide feedback, please email help@nehta.gov.au

Future releases

Updates to the Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Editorial Rules, Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Technical Implementation Guide and Australian Medicines Terminology v3 Model - Technical Implementation Guide Scripts have been scheduled for release before June 2014.